

SKOPE Seminar Series: England's progress towards a tertiary education system

Hillary Term 2026

In May 2025, the British Educational Research Association (2025) published a series of blog special issues on potential pathways towards an integrated tertiary education system in England. Since then, the UK Government has announced that from 2026 it will introduce a lifelong learning entitlement for England, which will replace higher education student finance loans and advanced learner loans 'to create a single post-18 student funding system' (DfE, 2025). Additionally, the Post-16 education and skills white paper announced a number of measures to 'bring higher and further education providers closer together by simplifying the regulatory framework for higher level study' (HM Government, 2025, p. 43).

This series of seminars explores England's progress towards a tertiary education system, and puts this in a theoretical, historical, and comparative perspective. Each seminar will be held in hybrid mode at The University of Oxford's Department of Education (Seminar Room G/H) on Thursday from 22 January to 12 March 2026, from 4:15 pm to 5:45 pm.
